

EP#1 (Welcome to Enigma)

- (Past) Flashback when Snowball was a child watching Mysteria Circus's roadshow for the first time with great fascination.
- (Present) Snowball decided to travel to Absolute Geno-Front where Mysteria Circus originated and do research about the Relic that is located at the center of the region. To find money to supplement his research, he submitted a resume for a job at Mysteria Circus following his childhood dream.
- Snowball hired a native fisherman's boat to get him to Enigma harbor in Absolute Geno-Front. Water transportation was the only means to reach the city.
- On the boat, Snowball read news about a person transforming into a monster and made a comment about how fake it looked. The fisherman heard him and eagerly wanted to show he was one of those guys. Suspiciously, he was producing something from behind while his body underwent transformation.
- Suddenly, a dragon-like creature charged the fisherman from the sky and pinned him on the deck floor. Its name was Noel Ersdchein and he was sent from Mysteria to escort him to the circus complex.
- Also it turned out that the fisherman was producing a box of very special sweet delights he brought with him from another harbor and the whole commotion was misunderstood. The three decided to forget about it and shared the sweets while the boat drifted closer to their destination.
- Upon reaching the harbor, Snowball and Noel said goodbye to the fisherman and continued their trip into Enigma City. After a while, they finally arrived at the Mysteria Circus's complex. Much to Snowball's disappointment, the complex didn't look as marvelous as he imagined in childhood.
- Snowball was welcomed by the president of Mysteria Circus, her name was Dominik Monad, aka Dom, aka Monad, aka Julian, aka the Apostate and many others. Seeing that Snowball was disheartened, Dom quickly tried to divert his down spirit to the show of the circus itself by giving him free entry to the daytime show.
- The show itself was nothing like what Snowball remembered in childhood; undertrained, lack of varieties, undermanned, overall horrible. There were only a few members left with two of them being Ginkgo and Noel.
- Snowball unhesitatingly reconsidered his applying job at the circus. Dom was desperately trying another approach to convince Snowball. She gave him another free entry for the nighttime show.

- (Hours later) The nighttime show was different from the daytime show by the contents; stripper show, pole dancing, drink bar, a little more guests, but overall still horrible. Snowball prepared to decline Dom's offer. At the corner of his eye, it was Noel dancing with his naked body. Snowball, while mesmerised by how Noel moved and his gratitude during the show, decided to give the circus a try.
- After the nighttime show, much to Dom's happiness and the other members of the circus's surprises, she produced a contract and encouraged Snowball to quickly sign without reading the contract. Dom shook Snowball's hands and said to him that he was now the new leader of the circus and inherited all she had. This move stunned Noel who openly displayed disbelief and anger.
- Dom quickly gave each member goodbyes and final words. Noel tried to argue, but Dom quickly shut him down with a kiss and wishes. Then, she stepped in the middle of the room with suitcases, said farewell and disappeared into the thin air.
- Snowball was stunned and asked the others about what had just happened. The members of the circus were speechless as he was. Noel broke the silence with an obvious unsatisfied tone, "You don't even know, do you? She just made you the leader of the Cult of Mysteria!"
