

Flash fiction based on this prompt:

A cam model famous for her rapidly growing boobs finds out her new batch of breast supplements is significantly more potent than previous doses

Contains: Breast Expansion

Unexpected Potency

Teresa Davidson, Titania to her followers, checked her makeup in the camera view as she waited for the clock to tick over to nine. Titania had become one of the most popular cam girls in the big boob scene with her ability to grow her massive chest even bigger at will. Nobody knew how she did it, not even Teresa herself. But if she concentrated, focused her will, she could expand her breasts just over a cup size per hour. They always went back down to her normal M-cups after a good night's sleep, but if Titania put on a nice tight button-up, played games and chatted with her fans for a few hours, she could be down to just her bra and make more money in one night than she'd made in a entire month working retail.

But it was getting more difficult. Titania was having a harder and harder time keeping her viewers entertained without losing focus and stalling out her growth. She had few other skills, and her baseline size had increased over the years to the point where her only other career option was stripping or actual porn. Teresa wasn't coordinated enough to dance, and the thought of being filmed having sex made her skin crawl. So she did the only thing she could think of; she ordered every kind of bust enhancement product she could find online.

The first was a cream called Body Boost from some company called Madsgenix. Teresa doubted it would actually work, but on the off-chance it did, she wasn't going to waste the growth not doing it live on her channel. She squirted a big glob of the white cream into one palm, spread it between both hands, then rubbed it into the skin beneath her blouse and industrial-strength bra. Almost immediately Teresa felt a tingling all over her breasts, which she chalked up to some kind of mild stimulant meant to convince the suckers who bought the stuff that it was working.

Teresa started the stream.

“Hey guys! Welcome back to Tuesdays with Titania! We’re going to be checking up on my island in Animal Crossing, but first...”

Teresa kept up her vamping, while she concentrated on her breasts. Just like she’d done hundreds of times, she visualized them growing. Swelling. Filling with fat, the cells within enlarging, dividing, and enlarging again. But unlike the hundreds of times before, her body reacted almost immediately. Within seconds Teresa grew from M-cup to O, then P. The buttons on her blouse creaked and strained; small diamond-shaped windows opening to show her viewers skin and bra alike.

Teresa gasped, breaking the patter of her stream as she saw the fabric of her top pucker and wrinkle in the small preview window on her screen. “Oh wow... my girls are enthusiastic tonight. I hope you guys are as excited as they are!”

A flood of eggplants, cherries, and water splash emoji scrolled by the chat faster than Teresa could see.

I guess this stuff is the real deal... She thought, hiding a smug smirk.

Testing the Body Boost lotion again, Teresa tried focussing her will very gently on her breasts. She imagined them plumping up ever so slightly, like hot dogs on the grill.

Titania’s blouse erupted in a spray of buttons, and Teresa watched the donation tracker blur as money poured in.