Player notes:

Bar 5 of part A: The Dbmaj7 can be tricky with the triplet on the second beat. Try to strum through on the second beat but mute leaving your hand in a position to play the triplet in time.

Bar 6 of part A: This is written as one measure of 3/4, which works great, but if you could stretch it out to 4/4 in the style of some crazy long triplet, that would sound great, too. If you do so you will have to rely a lot on feel.

Rhythm in general: Don't be scared it hit some up strokes on the off beat to create more movement, this is less planned and more natural, but something you will hear quite a bit when I play this tune.

Finish: I finish on an F but if you wanted you could take it back to the Gm7 and then finish on an F as noted in the alternative ending.
