

THE "JOB BOARD" SCROLL

RABID RABBITS

[25 gold] No matter how many of the giant rabid rabbits the town guard puts down, a dozen more take their place the next night. Soaked in blood and slobber, the territorial colony is attacking anything and anyone foolish enough to wander the streets at night. The mayor has scraped together a humble reward for anyone who can find the rabbits' den and put a stop to them.

A GRINNING "OGRE"

[50 gold] Farmer Feycrop is desperate to see the "massive, grinning ogre" she saw devouring her sheep in the middle of the night killed before it strikes again. Unfortunately for the heroes, Farmer Feycrop has mistaken the grinning maw of a young manticore for an ogre. The "ogre's" tracks lead away a few hundred feet before vanishing where the manticore took flight.

A HIDDEN AFFAIR

[50 gold] Filip Proudvent is a mediocre bard with an astounding talent for getting himself mixed up with the wrong people. This time it was in the bed with a notorious crime lord's wife. To make matters worse, he forgot his iconic flute under the bed. Unable to get in contact with the lady of the house, Filip will pay 100 gold to anyone who can discreetly return the "evidence" to him.

HAG IN THE CHURCH

[75 gold] The town is in a panic after the innkeeper's newborn was stolen from his crib in the middle of the night. The priest, Mother Moonsticher, is offering 75 gold to anyone who can retrieve the boy. What nobody knows is that Mother Moonsticher was killed several nights ago by a green hag who then took on the appearance of the priest and is responsible for the kidnapping.