

The night sky was owned by a viscous array of monsters, each more beast-like than the last. On the top of any hierarchy or food chain laid dragons. These two dragons were the cardinal rulers of the continent they plagued. One had invincible scales that reflected like a shimmering gold, otherwise known as Laxity. His invincibility and lack of motivation struck him as almost a pushover of sorts, though none could stop the dragon from perching in a holy mountain for a nap. His mate, another male dragon, was one feared throughout the land. He glistened a vibrant crimson, his scales even paired with the sunfire eyes that glared to stop the hearts of man. His body had the unique quality of absorbing the physical and magical qualities of everything it was close to, easily ridding an army of their forces or a knight of his will to fight when he was so easily diminished to a commoner. The name Vex made blood run cold. However the one time these two dragons joined forces to terrorize humanity was when the dragon's mating season rolled around the corner. All around the world, dragons came together to breed and get the world ready for the next wave of tyrannical rulers. From Laxity's cavern, a hurried scurry of kobolds and other beasts ran about to stroke and feed him their every possession. He lazily strewn himself over an enormously cushioned pillow, specially designed for him. The other monsters surrounding him panicked, understanding that disturbing his rest would result in them being fed to the large dragon instead. With a sigh, the chubby dragon rolled over, scaring his pets away as they scattered about.

"Ugh... Libido...? Where is my boobear?" The dragon lazily groaned, not even bothering to raise its head as it spoke. A small fox named Libido jogged up happily and looked at the scroll sent by one of the few remaining pets of Vex.

"Your mate should be here before the moon darkens the sky. Let's not worry about it! Shall we better prepare you for his arrival? You know he can get pretty demanding after he's been away.~" The fox smiled, stroking the muzzle of his master in hopes to lighten his spirits. With a sigh, Laxity agreed. Even going so far as to roll his eyes to establish his indifference.

"Yeah, I guess you're right... I'm so glad you're my pet, what would I do without you?~" Laxity asked, his tongue creeping from his maw and disheveling his front fur. Libido laughed, his fox tail swishing as he licked some of the saliva off his face.

"I'd assume you'd do as you always do and sulk your days away!"

With that, Libido walked over and commanded the other pets to organize who goes where, as well as who would keep watch for Vex's arrival. An unlucky few pets rushed over to the head of the cave to keep watch, meant to welcome Laxity inside and arouse Vex before he took ownership of Laxity. Libido was able to pull a giant ornament from his master's hoard, tugging over in position. Laxity demanded it long ago and it had admittedly been worn due to years, but it still operates well as a dildo to prep Laxity for his mate's arrival. Understanding the process, Laxity slowly lifts his tail, slightly smirking in excitement. Libido grabbed other pets to assist in the insertion, slowly working it into his hole before pushing it forward, watching as the golden scales slowly envelope the thick bulbous figure, easily 5 times the size of Libido, who was only a small creature by comparison to his master. The other pets worked hard to push the dildo in place, utilizing their whole body in order to properly force the dildo in their master, though Laxity only curled his tail over to assist in the insertion, easily overpowering the other pets and with a loud SHLORP*!

“Ahhh... Oh how I miss this little toy... Libido? Come to my face, pet.” Laxity called over his shoulder as his pets pushed and pulled the dildo in order to properly simulate their master. Libido jogged over, waiting by the head of his master with a smile across his face.

“Oh this feels so good, but do you know what will make it better?~” Laxity asked, a familiar smile crossing his face. Libido could think of nearly a billion things that could help to satiate his master.

“Please do tell! I live to serve you, after all!” Libido cheered to his master. Without a word, Laxity opened his mouth wide, laying his tongue out as well. In a state of understanding his master's needs, he stepped into the cavernous maw and laid down over the thick tongue of his master and pressed his paws deep into the spongy material, feeling the dripping saliva mat the rest of his fur and the possessions of his being left at the lips of his master. He didn't need them for where he was going. With Libido in position, Laxity closed his lips and pressed Libido into the roof of his maw, stroking him up and down with a slow coo of affection as Libido became nothing but a plaything to his master as a snack before Vex arrived. With Libido successfully lubed and prime for swallowing, Laxity lowered Libido in his maw, allowing him to willingly crawl into the back of his maw, allowing his master the final say in when he gets swallowed.

With almost a telepathic level of knowledge, Laxity waited until his fox to get to the back of his maw to swallow him, causing Libido to slowly sink into the throat of his master before a second gulp sent the frail fox to his master's stomach. He wasn't going to digest, Laxity knew better than that, but he would definitely be there for a while.

Laxity gave a sigh of relief, understanding that his favorite pet was safe and sound in his belly, now having an additional pleasure as Libido knew just how to massage his innards in the special way he liked. With his other pets still working to satisfy him from behind. "You're so nice, Libido.~ If I ever end up nomming you for good, it'd feel amazing. Sadly you aren't relieved of your duties just yet."

As if on cue, a familiar red glare peered the corner with a bulge in his cheeks before he swallowed heartedly, sending whatever was in his maw to his stomach, assumably to their demise.

"There you are! These pests outside insisted that they were your pets and would guide me to you. Did those fools not understand that I can smell you from a continent away? Ha!"

"Funnily enough, they were my pets. Though admittedly I doubt they would know just how good of a mate you are.~"

"Tsk. Then they'll churn for not knowing about their master's master. Where is Libido? I would like for him to join us like last year." Vex demanded. The other pets took notice of his ruthlessness and quickly fled, some even taking refuge behind their master while others ran to the farthest reaches of the cavern. Laxity and Vex had a unique relationship to one another. They referred to one another as master and pet, though they didn't see each other as such, still loving one another as equals. The ideas perplexed the actual pets and they decided to leave the topic alone.

"Hmm. We'll deal with that as we get to it. As of now, what has my pet prepared for me? I've worked very hard, so you have your work cut out for you tonight. That fox of yours would do nicely as well. Think you can forfeit your meal for some pleasure? Unlike your other accessories, I actually don't mind that one... Don't make me force him out of you." He growled the words as he insisted further. Despite their relationship, Laxity often feared sharing a pet with his mate due to the disregard he has for them. In his eyes he already has the best one, so why waste time. Admittedly he only felt reserved for Libido in the want to keep him to himself, wishing to reserve the right to his digestion for his own satisfaction, though he knew he wouldn't be able to.

"Ugh fine... But only cause I know how much fun you have when he's in that cock of yours..." Laxity sighed, almost standing before Vex placed a heavy claw over his mate's face, pressing him to the ground.

“Don’t throw him up. Just hurry up the process and send him through your intestines, I’ll reach him myself. Now raise that tail of yours so I can remind the world who you belong to.” He growled again, beginning to circle around Laxity and lifting a pet that hid behind one of his haunches and next to his balls. Carelessly, Vex tossed the kobald in the air and snatched him out of it with a loud snap of his fangs, managing to keep him intact as he swallowed him.

“By the end of tonight, I’d prefer to keep some of my pets. Who else will cater to me while you’re away...?” He whined, lifting his ass for his mate, who licked his lips before taking note of the dildo plugged into his mate. Before he spoke in words, a growl was all he could manage.

“If all they can use to satisfy you is this flimsy little toy? That’s pathetic!” Vex looked around for a pet of his mate that somehow managed to stick close. He eventually lifted one hidden by Laxity’s sheath and grabbed them tightly in his claws with snared fangs.

“Hey, master?~ Remember what I said about my pets?~” Laxity called in a sing-songy voice, even swaying his hips side to side in hopes of preserving his number of pets.

“I wasn’t going to eat it!” He growled with barred fangs before turning back to the pet in his grip, who tried to hide behind their own hands and their tail between their legs. “Stand by me! If you even think about leaving, I’ll churn you before you can even touch that tiny dick of yours!” He growled, dropping the cowardly reptile as his fangs clamped over the ring around his mate’s anus. With a forceful *PLOP the dildo slipped through his mate’s intestines and was tossed against the ground. The pet on standby looked in astonishment as his master’s horniness was now quantified for him. Now drooling along his lips, Vex leaned in and pressed his hot tongue against the already worn anus of his mate, eliciting a moan from the chubby dragon.

From the inside, Libido had just been massaging his master’s insides. There was a lot of commotion from what he heard before the belly he was forced in began constricting, his quarters now constricting against him and making it obvious that Laxity is moving and intends to let Libido out in time to assist with the mating between Vex and his master. Libido followed his master’s nonverbal instructions and forced himself in the sandwich of pulsing flesh, now identifying his environment as his master’s intestines. he went along with it, allowing his body to be tugged along by the flesh until a billowing wet noise tore through his environment. The safest assumption was that the dildo was removed, and if that’s the case, then Vex must've come back already. A smile crossed his face as he thought about what his master may want with him or better yet, what the Vex wanted with him. An erection of the small fox jabbed his master's fleshy walls as Libido moved through. He knew not to cum before his masters, but the thought has crossed his mind more times than he can count, and with Vex involved, who's to say just how harsh his punishment would be for an early climax.

Laxity could only moan as his head rested against the ground with his favorite pet rummaging through his intestines and his overpowering mate holding his tail in place as his tongue reached deeper than the dildo did already. Whether it be that the dildo was too short or Vex's tongue was extensively long, it was already satisfying to the lazy dragon enough to the point to release his cock from its sheath. It was thicker than anything, not having much length to it. That said, the magnitude of his balls even outweighed the girth of his cock. When he wasn't swallowing with his maw, he took prey in with his other head. As it reached his full length, a line of precum dripped from his circular tip. The pet on standby took this to his advantage and ran over to catch the sperm twice his size in his mouth. Vex didn't even look at the pet before using his tail to scoop the pet closer to him. As soon as the pet was in position, Vex lifted one of his hind claws and slammed it into the pet. It was hardly rough to kill the poor thing, but it was enough to keep the pet from any additional undeserved dragon drinks. The pet tried to scratch and claw at the hard scales in order to drink more of the salty spunk, but Vex only twisted his ankle in resilience, ensuring that the pet knew its place beneath his toes moreso than beneath his mate's cock and taking what was rightfully his.

As Vex slipped his tongue out, he lathered the taste over his fangs, clawing at the hips of his mate as he raised himself into position, mounting Laxity with his slit pressed into his anus, earning another moan from his dear pet. From deep inside, the cock slowly began to arise, instantly pressing into Laxity's hole. As notorious as Vex was for being able to trample kingdoms, his cock was notorious throughout the monster land as well. His length alone was enough to match his wingspan and his frayed cock head earned as a mighty challenge for the more needy dragons who mistakenly thought they could court the red drake. With enough growth behind his head, Vex pushed deeper, finally inserting his head into Laxity, whose legs could hardly handle the excitement. Vex smirked, slowly stroking in and out with lines of drool spreading over the golden scales of his mate as he fantasized about rightfully ejaculating in Laxity after so much time apart.

Vex continued with more might, getting too excited and deciding that he didn't need to wait until his cock's full length to fuck him. His tongue rolled from his mouth as his cock pumped into his mate at peak sensitivity. The pet beneath Vex could only withstand so much weight, wincing in agitation as fluids dripped just out of his reach with Vex's body bouncing on top of him at increasing frequency. From inside, Libido had managed to crawl to where the ruckus was mainly focused, though the cave ahead of him opened with the tip of his master's mate thrusting into his face and undoing any progress he had at escaping. Vex felt this obstruction and continued, now even more encouraged to reach his full length. Libido, on the inside, had the head of a dragon's cock slammed into him and repeatedly pushed him back to the belly of his master as Vex began thrusting with his full length. A few growls of possessiveness escaping from his drooling maw with the passionate stimulus.

Vex continued with Laxity allowing him to fully control the process, not minding his two pets being demoted to toys for his master. Though those same pets hardly held any resentment towards the position. The clenching of Vex's toes made for a rough and heartless massage that scrunched the pet into a familiar position of being compacted under the massive weight of the red dragon. His scale's effect had already sapped his strength and led him to no longer be able to lift himself into a better position with his body now reduced to a weakened state. Libido could hardly feel the difference due to the sudden exposure, though the sensation was nothing new to him, often being Vex's favorite among Laxity's pets. As a constant cock pet, Libido knew to brace himself for his fullest usage. As it stood however, Libido didn't last very long against the head of Vex's cock as it reached its full length and pierced the end of laxity's immense belly and pinned Libido into the dense fat of his master. With a fanged grin across his mouth, Vex had achieved the accomplishment of very few whose cock could fill a dragon of bigger proportions, reserved only for him and his own pet.

With his full length achieved and Libido crushed against the head of his cock and Laxity almost caving over had it not been for Vex's grip and strength. Vex began the familiar movement of tugging out and pushing back in, constantly reaffirming Libido's placement at the head of his cock while causing a recurring bump in Laxity's already pronounced gut. The pets surrounding the spectacle stood aghast, surprised at just how much their master could have been taking this whole time. A few bolder ones even deciding that now would be a good enough time to satisfy themselves. Libido had been far too weakened at this point to join his coworkers and instead found that the constant bumping was causing his body to get steadily more accommodated by the flat head of Vex's cock.

Libido tried to flex his arm to reach into the booming cock slit ahead of him, though it appeared that even his cock had the qualities of his scales, inhibiting Libido from repositioning or better readjusting to appease either master of his. Though this worry would soon dissipate as Libido's legs got caught in between the two lips of the cock and began tugging him inside. As soon as his knees were caught by the cock, his body was pulled and pushed by Vex's efforts until the rest of his body got shoved in by the belly walls he was previously slammed against. Soon enough, he was traveling down the warm length of Vex while a few spurts of cum drove past him and planted in his master's belly. Laxity could feel the bizarre transaction through vague movements, though he could only grunt in pleased breaths as his pet was pulled from inside of him. Though even if he had any objection to the movement, he hardly had the authority or the energy to take Libido back. From above them all, Vex grinned, feeling his favorite cock pet finally reach his intended place within him. Vex flexed his cock between thrusts and forced Libido's descent to reach his destination even quicker than intended. Libido had been pulled along for the ride with not much say in the matter until he reached the more open and far more damp pocket of swirling and energy absorbent cum. As soon as he found his place in Vex's internal balls, quickly falling victim to the properties of the sperm as it overcame him, retaining enough strength and consciousness to hold his breath, understanding that Vex will soon reach his orgasm.

Laxity didn't have the insider knowledge that Libido had, instead basing his knowledge off of Vex's fastening pace and the cave shaking growls that were emitted from him. With mere moments before his climax, Vex pulled out completely, reaching down to grab the stray pet under his foot and squeezing him in the same hole he had just pulled out of, not wasting a moment to use his cock to hammer the pet inside, fully thrusting inside with a powerful ocean of cum storming behind the pet and ensuring the pet's containment. Laxity felt the rush of the cum follow soon after the pet was flooded, even lowered his head into his cushion even further as Vex roared in ecstasy, warning the entire kingdom if not continent that Vex owned the lazing drake as a mate with no contenders. The stray pet and Libido both found themselves amidst the sea of cum, swirled by the constant additions, not yet being drained out by the absence of the large cock, instead leading them to float about in wait for their masters to be done. Laxity gave an exhausted sigh of relief, completely melting in his mate's grip. He could feel his pets swirling in his guts, the boiling semen coating them in preparation for their exit. Vex couldn't help but smile, now laying his weight over his mate with the thick golden tail wrapped around his side. Vex decided that now was a good enough time to reveal his 'gift' to his mate.

"Pet. Listen to me, I don't want to repeat this too many times. You know how I put one of your other pets inside of you?" Vex started, not able to shift his expression from a smile. The surrounding pets that have finished their own orgasm now rushing to the dragon's side to lap off the residue in between them as well as shaking Laxity's cock, satisfying him after Vex had come to his long awaited climax.

"Hmm? Yes? It was a very fun last minute decision. I was in the mindset that you would simply take the pet for your own by the end of this..." Laxity formed his words through his orgasm coming back to him after already spreading seed along his belly. Vex smirked proudly, stroking his paw against his mate's belly as the cum swirled about.

"Well I had marked the pet with a spell I gained from a witch. With our genetics combined, you will give birth to a wonderful dragon, gaining both of our magnificent! As for Libido, I simply hope to get him... Accustomed to his new master, assuming my cum doesn't churn him from inside!~" Vex laughed. Laxity had always mentioned how much he would have adored having a miniature child of his to care for. He had no idea Vex had found a way to bring that to fruition. A smile crept across his face as his thick lips curled at the ends. Whether it be thanks to his oncoming orgasm, or the good news. The pets outside seemed to revel in the possibility of one of them becoming their masters child. What they thought was the pet's luck that landed him in between their master's mating, the luck had turned positive.

"Aww, you really did? Oh, I already have so many name ideas!... Oh if only Libido were out to write these down..." Laxity moaned, half unappeased by his pets disadvantage position, and the other with the climax of his approaching. Vex, still plugging his mate's hole with his cock, reaches down to grab a pet in his claws, tossing them in his maw and swallowing them without a second thought. Afterwards reaching down to jerk off his mate in place of the pet that he had taken.

"whatever name you decide on will be the name of our child. You are the one to birth them after all." Vex growled, feeling his mate spread his second load across the ground with a deep sigh of relief. Only a few moments passed before the name of what would soon be the most powerful dragon.

“Vaunt.” He decided, laying down over some of the pets who didn’t have the foresight to get from beneath the overweight dragon. Vex smiled, honored that he could have such an obedient pet and such a loving mate, he couldn’t imagine how lucky his child would be once they’re born.